L. & R. CHUTICK LAW LIBRARY

Res Nova; "a new thing." To some, this title may appear unlikely and incongruous at an institution such as a law school which uses precedent as its foundation. To others, Res Nova is simply another Latin legal expression, which, while sounding impressive, necessitates a look through Black's Law Dictionary to discover its meaning.

To those of us who wished to start an annual yearbook at Cardozo, "Res Nova" took on a special significance. Not only were we beginning a "new thing," a new tradition within our institution . . . we hoped that this volume would be viewed as a springboard. For many readers of this edition, Res Nova may be their final contact with the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law. That last step between the ivory tower of school and the real world outside.

Cardozo has gone through many changes in the last three years. During the period of August 1980 to June 1983, it has seen the untimely passing of founding Dean Monrad Paulsen, transition during the acting deanship of Lester Brickman, and the promise of innovative direction under Dean Monroe Price. Numerous Assistant and Associate Deans have come and gone. The make-up of the student body has diversified and the statistics of the "typical" Cardozo student have improved. Certain faculty members maintained their special presence while unusual favorites have gone elsewhere with new professors taking their places but not always our hearts.

Through it all, one thing has remained constant. The Cardozo student remains . . . energetic, competent, sometimes defensive, struggling to let the legal world know that we have something special to offer.

To you, that "typical Cardozo student," we offer and dedicate this volume. You are older but wiser than when you started law school. You are about to utilize the law, ethics and values with which you have been inculcated and hopefully, survive.

We wish you good luck, good fortune, good health and happiness as you leave these walls and venture on to new things. It is our desire that Res Nova will provide you with fond memories of the moments and ideas we shared together.

THE STAFF

Establishing a CSL yearbook seemed, to those of us who began this project in the fall of 1982, to be something worthwhile and perhaps even a lot of fun to put together.

As the school year progressed, bit-by-bit the book took shape. At times the work went smoothly. More often, forced to compete with the study time required to meet course obligations, progress was slow and difficult, sometimes coming to a complete halt for weeks at a time. There are parts of the book that we had hoped might be somewhat better. This is not for any lack of willingness to do the work required, it is only that time permits just so much. All-in-all we rather like the way it turned out, and we sincerely hope that you will too.

It is with great pride that we present this book, RES NOVA, to the finest lawyers to come out of CSL to date-The Graduating Class of 1983.

We would like to acknowledge the cooperation of Yeshiva University, the administration of the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, The Forum, Larry Margolin, and the many students who rooted us on in our first effort to bring a yearbook to Cardozo.

We especially appreciate the generosity and enthusiasm displayed by the many families and friends of the class of 1983 who responded to our "appeal" earlier this year. They, more than anyone are responsible for the successful completion of RES NOVA.

Drawings and "shorts" credited "From 29 Reasons" have been selected from "29 Reasons not to go to Law School" by Warner & Ihara, Published by Nolo Press, California. We greatly acknowledge their permission to utilize their unique perspective of what lawyering is all about.

At this point-in-time having a class yearbook may not seem of monumental importance. But many years from now, when you leaf through this book, we hope that you are inundated with pleasant memories.

More importantly we hope that you will be the kind of attorney of which the Cardozo Community and yourself can both be proud.

GOOD LUCK.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FEBRUARY 8, 1983

Dear Graduates:

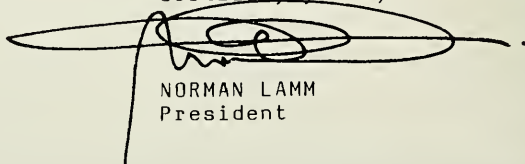

Your graduation from the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law is a milestone, both in your own lives and in the life of the Institution. Personally it means that after three years of the study of law in an intellectually challenging and stimulating environment you are now prepared to practice a profession that will, we hope, be fulfilling to you and of great benefit to society. For Yeshiva University, your graduation is equally important, for it marks the fifth commencement in the history of our Law School and a giant step closer to the goals we set in our commitment to excellence.

Although the Cardozo School of Law was chartered in 1974, less than a decade ago, the institution has earned a reputation far exceeding that of many long established law schools. Our success depends in large measure on the accomplishments of students such as you. Indeed, you have brought honor to the memory of the eminent jurist for whom our School is named. May you continue to bring honor to us in your achievements.

As each of you is awarded your J.D. Degree and leaves 55 Fifth Avenue as a student, we trust that along with your legal knowledge you will carry the challenge of the inscription in the School's lobby: "The Final Cause of Law is the Welfare of Society." May you go from strength to strength, fortifying your own lives and careers and becoming a blessing to the entire community.

Yeshiva University, its Trustees, administration, and faculty happily welcome you to its distinguished alumni.

Cordially yours,

February 15, 1983

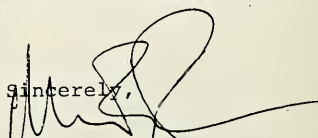

Dear Students:

I am pleased to include my comments in this year's Res Nova. For me, it has been an exciting first year as Dean, learning about the talents and aspirations of our law students, helping, I hope, in the process of making Cardozo a great institution. It has been a year during which the loyalty of the faculty and the welcoming spirit of the students has aided me in the difficult process of learning how the various parts of the law school can be brought toward a stronger whole.

Cardozo is realizing its potential as a place that vaunts a commitment to legal theory together with a concern for professional development. In its young life, the law school has already made impressive marks, gathered an enormously talented faculty and attracted law students with much to offer the profession.

My congratulations to the students for this, the first Yearbook for the law school. It is yet another milestone in the institution's maturation.

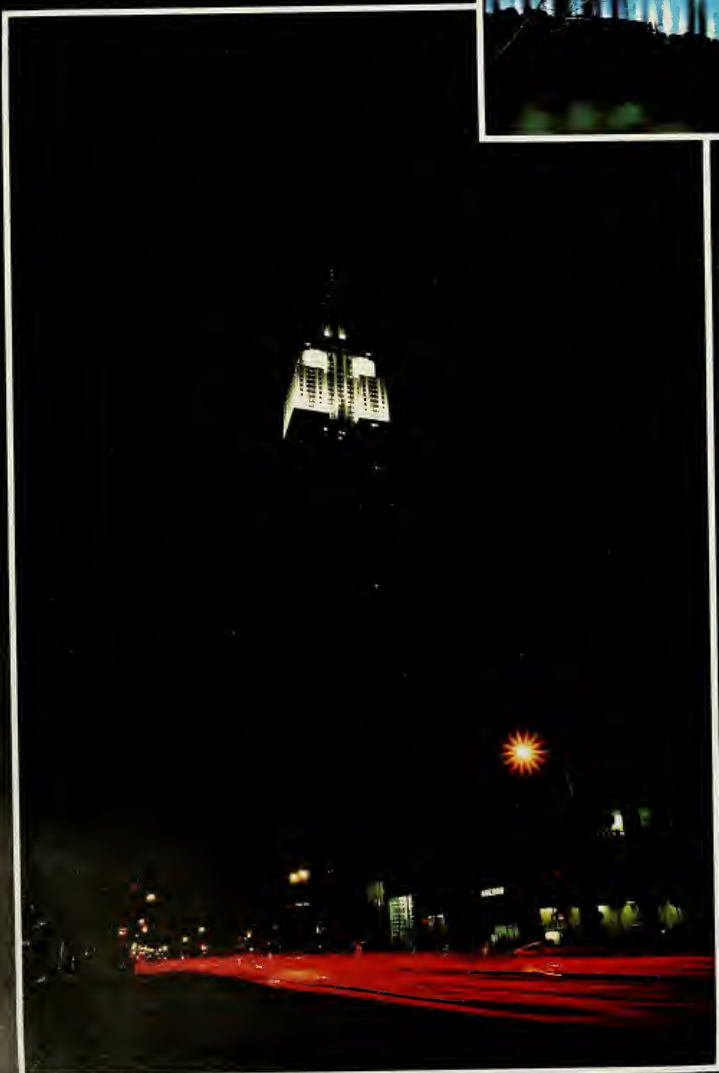

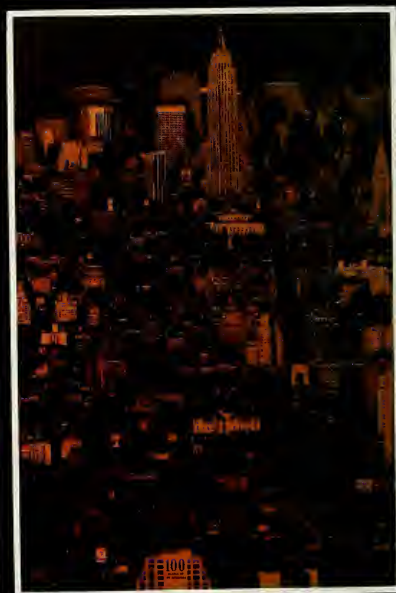

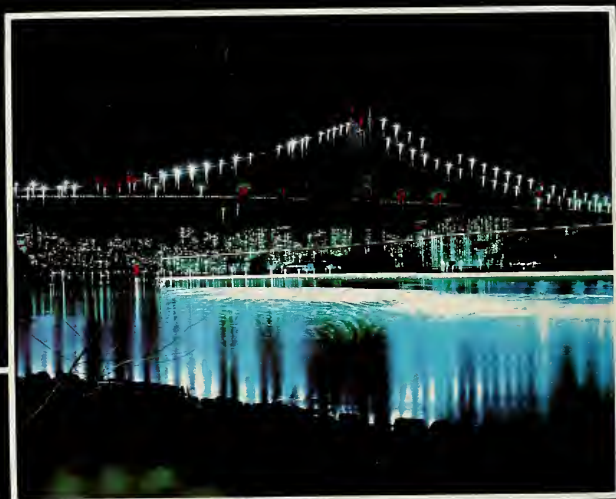

Sincerely,

Monroe E. Price

Before entering law school, he did graduate work and was a teaching fellow in government at Harvard University. While in law school, he was a member of the Chicago Law Review and a teaching assistant to Prof. Sola Mentschikoff in a course in jurisprudence. In 1979 he was a visiting professor at the University of Chicago Law School. While an associate at Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton, New York City, he taught commercial law as an adjunct professor at the University of Connecticut Law School. He is a member of the American Law Institute.

JONATHAN L.F. SILVER

Professor of Law, B.A., 1969, Yale University; J.D., 1973, University of Pennsylvania.

Professor Silver received his law degree cum laude, was a member of the Order of the Coif, and received the Jefferson B. Fordham Award. He was chairman of the Prison Research Council, a student group aiding indigent prisoners. Following graduation, Professor Silver was law clerk to Judge William H. Hastie of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit (1973-74). He was an associate in law at Columbia University (1974-75), served with the Office of the General Counsel, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (1975), and has done consulting work for the National Academy of Sciences.

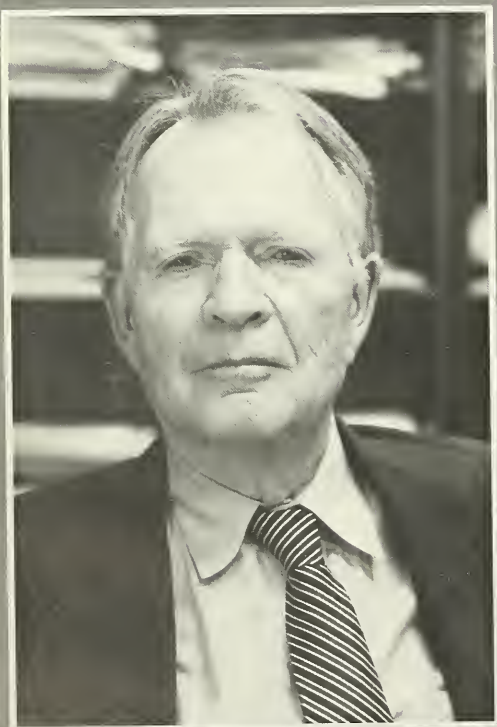

STEWART E. STERK

Associate Professor of Law, B.A., 1973, J.D., 1976, Columbia University.

Professor Sterk joined the faculty in 1979 after serving for two years as law clerk to Chief Judge Charles D. Broutin of the New York Court of Appeals. While in law school, Professor Sterk was managing editor of the Columbia Law Review. His primary areas of interest are conflict of laws, land use, and trusts and estates.

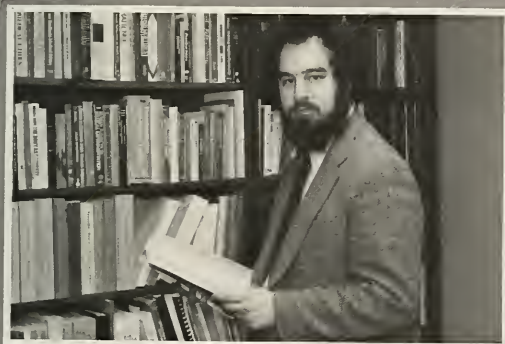

TELFORD TAYLOR

Professor Taylor's career in public service has been a long and distinguished one, beginning in 1933 when he served as assistant solicitor, U.S. Department of the Interior (1933-34); senior attorney, U.S. Department of Agriculture (1934-35); associate counsel, Senate Interstate Commerce Commission (1935-39); special assistant to the Attorney General, U.S. Department of Justice (1939-40); general counsel, Federal Communications Commission (1940-42); and administrator, Small Defense Plants Administration (1951-52). He achieved international renown as chief U.S. prosecutor at the Nuremberg War Crimes Trials (1946-49). As general counsel for the Joint Committee on Educational TV (1952-62), he was instrumental in advocating the interests of educational television. Professor Taylor has argued 10 cases before the United States Supreme Court. After many years in private practice in New York, he joined the faculty of Columbia Law School, where he is currently Nash Professor Emeritus. Among Professor Taylor's extensive writings on legal, political, and military subjects are his books Grand Inquest: The Story of Congressional Investigations (1955), Courts of Terror (1976), and his recently acclaimed Munich: The Price of Peace (1979). A major legal figure of our era, he is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

5th Annual Paulsen Competition

National Team Chosen

by Herb Pitkowsky

It took three weeks for the field of 58 to get down to the final four, but on Monday, March 21, The Fifth Annual Monrad G. Paulsen Competition came to a rousing conclusion. Sandra Wallach was named Best Oralist, while Mark Weissmann was runner-up.

The issues were quite involved, but Wallach and Weissmann, along with Marjorie Miller and Marty Aron, proved up to the task. Arguing, as one judge said, "better than most lawyers who appear in [his] court."

Sitting for the finals was a distinguished bench consisting of: the Hon. Otto Kaus, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of California; the Hon. Jose Cabranes, United States District Court Judge for the District of Connecticut; and the Hon. Abraham Sofaer, United States District Court Judge for the Southern District of New York.

The Paulsen Competition is where next year's Cardozo National Moot Court Team is selected. As a third-year student, Ms. Wallach is ineligible for the National Team. Therefore, next year's National Team Oralists will be Mark Weissmann and Marjorie Miller.

The competition to be the National Team Briefwriter also was keen. Honorable mentions were awarded to Sheldon Goldman, Robert Greenberg and Larry Tofel. The Best Brief was won by Marty Aron.

This year's problem dealt with two especially perplexing issues: standing to bring an action before the Supreme Court of the United States, and a constitutional challenge, based on the First Amendment Establishment Clause. The case arose over a state statute authorizing tuition tax deductions.

After the competition, Prof. Leslie Gerwin thanked the bench for taking the time to be there; Paulsen Editors, Brian Sahn and Jonathan Spanbock; and Lisa Sarnoff, and Isaac Mishkoff, who prepared the bench memo, for their untiring efforts in making the competition a success.

This year's competition drew the largest field of any in its history.

LIZ HOLTZMAN

I am fed up with the general perception of lawyers in today's world. Just yesterday, I was riding in a taxi and the driver turned to me and asked what I did for a living. I told him that I am a law student. In broken English he said "Ah, so you're learning to be a Liar," I corrected him, "Not a Liar, a Lawyer." "What's the difference," he quipped. I got so angry at this final affront that I blurted out, "you know something . . . a lawyer is not a bus, a lawyer is a piano!" I showed him.

The Bar Exam

It was the second day of the bar exam. On my way up the hill to the examination room that sunny morning I realized that I'd rather be writing children's stories.

Peter Jan Honigsberg
New York University School of Law
Currently: Writer of children's folk tales

Imagine spending three years:

- ★ memorizing the contents of 26 feet, 7 inches of books (approximately 911 lbs., for those readers who are heavy thinkers),
- ★ listening to 1,800 hours of lectures,
- ★ taking thirty examinations, and
- ★ spending $25,000 – $50,000,

only to be told that all your reading, all your listening, all your money, and all your success on the examinations qualify you for absolutely nothing except the right to take one more exam—the Bar Examination.

Imagine now being told that the Bar Exam tests not so much what you learned in the 1,800 lecture hours or the 26 feet, 7 inches of books, but on your ability to completely memorize the contents of another eight-inch thick outline.

Imagine next being told that in order to get this "magic" outline, you must pay an additional $800 and spend a couple of months at another school.

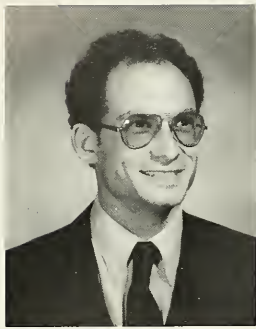

Imagine going to this new school with the knowledge that even if you read the magic outline 18 hours a day, evict your teddy bear and sleep with the bar outline clutched to your breast, your chances of flunking the examination are one in two.

Imagine sitting in the Bar Examination for three days, surrounded by grey-faced classmates trying desperately to make it into the top 50 percent.

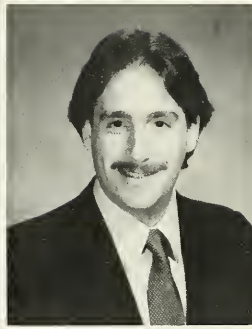

Imagine how you will feel if you succeed.

Imagine how you will feel if you fail.

Imagine how you will feel if you do something else entirely with your life.
